HAD ALREADY BEEN SHAVED.

A gawky-looking specimen of Sucker innocence, named Samuel Block, strayed into an up-town barber shop Sunday morning, and after sitting some time, was inquired of by one of the professors of the tonsorial art to know if he wished to be shaved. At the utterance of the last word Mr. Block burst into a loud guffaw and shook his sides with great cachinatory emotion. The gentlemen in the chairs raised up their lathery faces and stared wildly at an individual, who seemed to be able to get up so hearty a demonstration of laughter with such apparently small cause.

"I have been shaved," blurted out the Illinoisan, and immediately relapsed into immoderate mirth. After he had partially recovered, he went on to remark somewhat in manner and form following, to wit: "Come over here from Illanoy to sell a load of 'taters, Sat-day. Sold 'em purty soon, and o'cluded to see the burg. Feller on Broadway street with a Dutch lookin' face and a blue cap on it was a standin' b'fore a picter of a alligatur which was swollerin' a little nigger, an' another little nig straddle o' his back gougin' inter the animule with a large sized hatchet. The feller with the Dutch face said it was prob'ly the greatest cur'osity in the unknown world, an' all it cost to see this wonderful livin' specimint was the small price of one dime; and ef you'd a heerd the way he sed 'one dime' you'd a most tho't that ten cents was about the c'ntemtablest amount of money that could be scared up. So I goes in and sees the alligatur. There was a great lot of bully fine watches and trinkets and things in a glass box, and there was a man who said he was the sole and only solitary and exclusive agent for the best medicine ever perduced, which was the great somethin' or other Liniment, and the man what bought a bottil of the great American remmidy, should have a chance in the magnificent gift enterprise. So I goes in, but luck was heavy, and I sent up eight ringing dollars, and didn't git a derned thing 'cept four brass rings, two tooth pickers, two thimbles and a fine tooth comb. I tole the feller he could go ter everlastin' thunder with his infernal old hartshorn and soap suds, and walked out, flingin' a chaw terbacker in the right eye of the Dutch lookin' chap. Ha, ha, ha, ha!

"I only got up street a little ways, when a gentleman dressed for all the world like a store clerk or a railroad conductor, comes up to me and shook hands, askin' how Robinson was. 'He's all right, says I, wonderin' what Robinson the feller meant. Then the stranger, lookin' at his finger nails, wanted to know ef I'd loan him my knife a second and a half. So I pulls out my frog sticker and gin it to him. 'Hello!' says he, looking down street, 'there's a man I want to speak to,' says he, 'jist wait here a minnit,' an away he went like a dart, taking, takin' my two dollar knife with 'im. Consarn the sneak.

"After I eat my supper, I strolls round in the auction shops till about nine o'clock, when a critter with a big blue coat on, that didn't fit him good, asked me ef I didn't want to see some spots. 'Yes,' says I; 'come on,' says he; and we went up a pair of stairs to the Broadway Concert Hall, they call it, where there were singin' and dancin' and one thing an' another mixed up with whiskey and beer. I expect I got rather obfusticated, for I fell over on a bench and went to sleep. When I woke, by thunder, I put my hand in my pocket to get a chaw terbacker, and my derned old fist went plumb through. Hello, says I. By George the tarnal scoundrels had cut a slit in my breeches and hooked my pocket book that had $19 in it and my plug of Wirginny twist. Ha, ha, ha! I have been shaved, but I don't mind if I let one of you take a little scrape, since the landlord loaned me enough to git home on."

And Mr. Samuel Block elevated himself in a high chair and submitted to another "shave."—St. Louis Republican.

Sensible Fashions.

Notwithstanding the fact that it is a common practice to ridicule the hoops of the ladies, and to descant upon the fopperies of the opposite sex, we doubt whether there has ever been a period since the time that Adam and Eve put on their fig-leaf suits, that men and women dressed more sensibly than they do at present. The bonnets of the ladies which seem to be made more with reference to the ornamentation of their back hair than with a view to the protection of the head, is somewhat exceptional; while it must be conceded that there is some extravagance in the way of flounces, costly silks, and huge hoops. But tight lacing is eschewed by all sensible women, street dresses are worn reasonably high in the neck, and a fashionable lady, with her warm under-clothing, her thick shawl, cloak or mantilla, her stout boots and her gauntletted hands, cuts a very different figure from the full-dressed dames of fifteen or twenty years ago, who would have been shocked to have worn anything more substantial than gossamer, who would scorn any foot gear more effective than light slippers, and who would be horrified unless her form resembled that of a wasp.

Twenty years ago a gentleman would have been ashamed to appear in the street unless his limbs were incased in fine cassimere or broadcloth; his overcoat, if he wore one, would be made of thin cloth, and the garment, like the rest of his clothing, would be so tight as to require half an hour's pulling and dancing around before the getting it on would be accomplished.

Dickens describes a tightly-dressed individual in his Martin Chuzzlewit, who, he said, resembled a cloth sausage; and this stuffed appearance was peculiar to all the fashionables twenty years ago. Their pantaloons were as tight as they could be drawn on at all, and the fashion demanded that they should be suspended up and strapped down to within an inch of their cassimere lives; coats with tight sleeves, narrow backs, and flat chests were in vogue, and broadcloth was under a constant strain.

Garments are now worn loose and comfortable. The pantaloons of the present day do not impede the movements of the wearer; coats are sack-like in their dimensions; boots are worn thick and comfortable, and without the ridiculously high heels which used to breed corns so bountifully; while overcoats are sufficiently capacious to be thrown off or on with perfect facility. There is as great change in respect to materials as there is in regard to the cut of the garments, and the winter suits of the present day are now constructed of thick woolen stuffs, the mere sight of which would have horrified a fashionable gentleman of the last generation.

The present fashions certainly secure the comfort of their followers, while the liability to take colds in winter is much lessened. We have also heard it remarked that the number of persons afflicted with dyspepsia has greatly diminished since the wearing of easy clothing became fashionable. This is the natural result of leaving the organs of the body free to perform their respective functions.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

☞ An Ohio correspondent becomes sponsor for the following, which, as a matter of fact, he wishes to be put on record. W—— is one of the richest men in these parts, and has made his money by driving sharp bargains. His hired man was one day going along with a load of hay, which he overturned upon a cow. The poor thing was smothered to death before they could get her out. Her owner, Jones, called upon Mr. W—— the next day, and demanded payment for the loss of his cow.

"Certainly," said Mr. W——, "what do you suppose she was worth?"

"Well, about ten dollars," said Jones.

"And how much did you get for the hide and tallow?"

"Two dollars and a half, sir."

"Oh, well, then, you owe me [illegible]." Jones was [illegible], and W—— [illegible] his demand, [illegible] straight in his mind [illegible] the money.

☞ The Chicago Democrat gives a list of the [illegible] and naively adds, that [illegible] fifteen hundred others drew long breaths."

THE NEW CONGRESS.

We present herewith a perfect—we believe the first perfect—list of members chosen to the next Congress, which will assemble on the first Monday of December (the 5th) at noon. The House is entirely full, two vacancies which were created by the death of the members first chosen having been filled by special elections. There are several vacancies in the Senate caused by death and failure to elect, all which will doubtless be filled at an early day.

The doubts which still hang over the organization of the House will cause the list of its members to be widely scrutinized with interest.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MRS. WINSLOW,

AN Experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of mothers, her

SOOTHING SYRUP,
For Children Teething,

Which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay ALL PAIN and spasmodic action, and is SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and

RELIEF AND HEALTH TO YOUR INFANTS.

We have put up and sold this article for over ten years, and CAN SAY, IN CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH of it, what we have never been able to say of any other Medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED, IN A SINGLE INSTANCE TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after ten years' experience, AND PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILLMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most EXPERIENCED and SKILLFUL NURSES in New England, and has been used with NEVER-FAILING SUCCESS in

THOUSANDS OF CASES.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve GRIPING IN THE BOWELS AND WIND COLIC, and overcome convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the BEST, AND SUREST REMEDY IN THE WORLD, in all cases of DYSENTERY and DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN, whether it arises from teething or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—DO NOT LET YOUR PREJUDICES, NOR THE PREJUDICES OF OTHERS, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be SURE—yes, ABSOLUTELY SURE—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

UNITED STATES HOTEL, Washington, D. C., having been closed the last 2 months, will reopen on the 17th instant. The new proprietors, being determined to make this house equal to any other in the country, have gone to a large expense in putting it in perfect order. The house has been greatly enlarged, and, with the addition of many improvements, steam, water, &c., have been introduced, which add much to the comfort of the guests. It is the determination of the proprietors to make this a first-class house.
Mr. L. O. SMITH, the former proprietor, still retaining an interest in the house, returns thanks for past favors, and will be pleased to accommodate his friends while in the city. Respectfully, for sale at the store with the Large Sign, No. 526, corner of 7th and D streets.

The public having been cautioned not to be deceived by signs, I would respectfully say that I have always entertained a higher appreciation of the intelligence of my fellow-citizens than to believe they could be deceived by a sign on the wall, however large it may be.
If the ladies and gentlemen of the District and surrounding country, who wish to purchase will be kind enough to give us a call, we will try to convince them that they have no cause to fear deception, notwithstanding our lengthy signs; and that, though our clerks may not be as finished and polite in their address as those of our neighbor, yet we assure all who may honor us with a call that we will endeavor to treat them with all the courtesy of which we are capable. Very respectfully,
